21
22 The matter comes before the Court on Defendants' 23 administrative motion for leave to file excess pages for their 24 joint opposition brief on claim construction. Docket No. 290.<sup>1</sup>
25 Defendants seek ten extra pages, raising the limitation from 26 twenty-five to thirty-five pages. In support of their motion,

27 <sup>1</sup> Docket Numbers correspond to the docket for case number 28 14-3640.

1 Defendants point out that there are nine terms across three
2 patents in dispute. Further, Defendants argue that the excess 3 pages are necessary to provide ample space to harmonize the 4 arguments of six separate Defendants. Finally, Defendants state
5 that additional pages will permit Defendants to incorporate 6 illustrations which will make their argument easier to follow,
7 thereby assisting the Court.

8 Plaintiffs oppose the motion. Docket No. 295. Having 9 considered Plaintiffs' opposition, the Court concludes that many 10 of Plaintiffs' arguments simply carry no weight. For example, 11 Plaintiffs argue that there is "no justification" for the 12 increase; in fact, Defendants provided several justifications in 13 their motion. Plaintiffs also argue that "Defendants will use 14 some of the allotted page limit making accusatory statements about 15 Plaintiffs rather than focusing on the merits of claim
16 construction." The Court will not deny Defendants' motion on a 17 prediction. Plaintiffs also make much of the fact that Defendants 18 have had three months to file their brief. Plaintiffs' arguments
19 to that effect ring hollow, as Plaintiffs agreed to this briefing
20 schedule at the case management conference and several Defendants
21 have settled in the interim, necessarily upsetting the preparation
22 of a joint brief. Plaintiffs also argue that it would be 23 prejudicial to grant Defendants' motion, since Plaintiffs complied 24 with the applicable page limit in filing their opening brief.
25 However, Plaintiffs had an available remedy, had they determined 26 that extra pages were necessary: they could have filed a similar 27 motion for excess pages.

1 In sum, Defendants justified their request and Plaintiffs'
2 opposition has not convinced the Court that Defendants' motion
3 should be denied. The Court thus finds good cause and GRANTS
4 Defendants' motion.
